PASTORAL REFLECTION

"In beautiful things Saint Francis saw Beauty itself." –St. Bonaventure

How much can we celebrate at once? 2025 marks both the Jubilee Year of Hope and the 800th Anniversary of St. Francis' poem The Canticle of the Creatures.

Next Sunday, we continue the Casa's "Beauty" Concert Series with a performance by the Arizona Tremble Clef Choir, a group of people with Parkinson's disease, celebrating hope and beauty. Last November, Dr. Curt Sather's organ concert amazed us, and in March, we'll host the Phoenix Boys Choir, with more to come.

"In beautiful things Saint Francis saw Beauty itself. And through God's imprint on creation Francis followed God everywhere...making from all things a ladder by which he could climb up and embrace God—who is utterly desirable." –St. Bonaventure

From a Franciscan perspective, beauty reflects God's creation and draws us into deeper awe of the Creator. St. Francis saw beauty in the simple life, from the birds to the flowers. For Franciscans, beauty is not only physical but found in the harmony and goodness of all creation. It reminds us of God's love and calls us to humility, urging us to see the sacred in the ordinary. Beauty, in this view, invites us to live in gratitude and compassion, recognizing that everything reflects the Creator's infinite goodness.

How can we recognize and embrace beauty in our daily lives this year?

Casa Grounds for Solidarity Ministry Meeting

Wednesday, January 22

On January 22, the Casa Grounds for Solidarity Ministry Sellers Team is meeting to discuss plans for the new year. This would be an opportunity for prospective volunteers to learn behind-the-scenes how Café Justo sales are coordinated and an overview of the operations of the Café Justo, Inc. cooperative organization.

In the meantime, our next coffee sale is this weekend (January 11–12). If you'd like to get some coffee for the new year, this weekend would be a great chance!

COMMUNITY CONNECTION

Volunteer 101

The Casa has hosted many Survival School—Church Leadership Training workshops. Much of the curriculum educates paid staff about working with volunteers. An article in the Survival School manual lists common sources of motivation at work in people who are willing to volunteer:

1. The satisfaction of doing a task successfully, responsibly, and with tangible benefit to others.
2. A sense of belonging to the parish enterprise, often providing bonds of friendship, acceptance, and affirmation.
3. A sense of self-worth, importance, influence, or prestige in the parish network.
4. A meaningful outlet for expressing devotion and loyalty to God and to the Church.

Current Volunteer Needs

Casa Gardener, once a week to help keep the grounds beautiful.
