Family Biography

Nearly 20 years ago, Beza and her husband, Workneh, moved from Ethiopia to the United States. Since then, they have had two beautiful children, Abemeleh and Muhamin. Coming to the United States was an exciting time for Beza and Workneh, for so long they dreamt the American Dream. Upon arrival, they settled into a small apartment, which worked out well for them initially. However, since having their two children, the environment surrounding the apartment community became unsafe and concerning to the family of four. After sharing their concerns with a family friend, they learned about Habitat for Humanity and the opportunity to complete their American Dream, so they applied for a Habitat Home.

Despite some unsavory visitors in the complex, the family has wanted to be a part of their community, to share their Ethiopian culture while learning about American culture through friendships. They are proud to be citizens of the United States, and want their children to grow up knowing both Ethiopian and American values. They are thrilled to be moving into a forever home, where they will be highly involved in their community, solving problems together. The family loves spending time together playing outside and watching sports. They relish time spent going to church and celebrating holidays together. They love the outdoors and cant wait to spend more time in their yard and the local park. They can't wait to plant trees in their new backyard, maybe a garden. Owning a Habitat Home will give the family the stability and safety they need, while allowing them to be part of a bigger community!

"Thank you and God Bless you!"
